WEEK 1

During my first week of OJT, I was introduced to the company, its work environment, and my assigned role. The orientation and role briefing provided a clear understanding of my responsibilities and the expectations placed on me as a trainee. I also familiarized myself with Zoho and Desk365, which helped me gain a better understanding of how ticketing systems operate.

Through project meetings and system planning sessions, I actively participated in discussions and collaborated with my co-developer in designing the ticketing system. Overall, this week allowed me to adjust to the workplace environment while enhancing both my communication and technical skills.

WEEK 2

During Week 2 of my OJT, I focused more on the actual development of the ticketing system. I collaborated closely with my co-developer in coding, enhancing system features, and resolving errors. I also conducted further research and consulted with my team to better understand the system workflow before and during implementation.

We translated our plans into actual coding tasks and continuously improved the system based on team discussions and supervisor feedback. Additionally, we prepared for and participated in the project presentation, where we demonstrated the ongoing system. This week strengthened my coding, problem-solving, and teamwork skills in a real-world working environment.
